

Lesson 14 – (14th October, 2009)

Topic: Monologues and Dialogues

Part A. Monologues:

Monologues are usually one person talking to themselves - speaking to themselves. Listen and try to identify some monologue below:

My Mother never respects my opinions. When we discussed about school and university I always had to listen to her. She always said "Don't do this or that". She always says "Don't do this or that".

My Daddy says the following things. My Father is usually very strict in his words. I always have to do what he says. He always says "Don't do this or that". He always says "Don't do this or that". He always says "Don't do this or that". He always says "Don't do this or that".

Your turn! Try to differentiate between a monologue and a dialogue. Can you give examples?
