

Bill of Rights Quiz Review Sheet

For the quiz you should be able to:

- identify the rights provided in the first ten amendments to the Constitution
- explain why the Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution and who was responsible for writing it
- assess the importance of some key rights
- identify who interprets the meaning of the amendments

Answer the following general questions about the Bill of Rights:

1. How many amendments are part of the Bill of Rights?
2. Who was most responsible for convincing Congress to add the Bill of Rights?
3. Who decides what a “reasonable” search is?

Identify the Amendment that protects each right listed below:

The right to learn about what is happening in your world without government interference – read the newspaper, watch television.

The right to have an impartial jury in a criminal trial.

The right to ask the government to fix something that is wrong.

The right to live in your house without having the government place a soldier to live there with you.

The right to privacy.

The freedom from having the police stop you, search you, and take your belongings without a search warrant.

The right to have a jury of people like you who will determine if you should be charged with a crime.

The right to not be charged and tried for the same crime after being found not guilty.

The right not to say things to police that will get you in trouble.