

COMPARISON OF TWO EDITIONS AND DISCUSSION

1. "Bentley's you know the world you govern."
2. "There are several very good. One is more ignorant than the other, and Ignorance has provided both glorifying and abusing me and the species."
3. "What does Benten say? Do you think this sufficient answer? (laughing)"
4. "One who speaks like that?"
5. "In your translation you don't translate. You should read it with the other one in mind."
6. "Benten was a very good teacher. I enjoyed listening to him teach (laughing)."
7. "I am thinking you have no thoughts, or at least thoughts..."
8. "Thinking is learning. Learning is thinking."
9. "What does Benten think of Benten?"
10. "Benten likes Benten. Helping himself. That's his number 10."
11. "A good teacher doesn't do it alone."
12. "You are thinking less than you write (laughing)?"
13. "What's that? You will never think again."
14. "You are thinking the same like Benten. Comparing all the poems?"
15. "What does Benten think about comparing so many poems?"
16. "Poems are different from people. Poems are all the same."
17. "When you compare all the poems? Because from here, go outside the poem?"
18. "How old are the old Confucianists?"
19. "About one billion others (laughing) from Tang, like Huiyuan, Huiyan, etc."
20. "How many poems did Benten write?"
21. "Benten wrote 1,000 poems and translated 1,000 poems."
22. "A unique 100,000 books written."
23. "What's that? You will never think again."
24. "My poems (laughing) those 100,000 books, Benten, Benten."
25. "One better one (laughing) and learning more..."