162	Chapter 15 Digestive System
11.	Enema-
12.	Flatulence
13.	Ingestion-
	Jaundice-
15.	Mastication
16.	Peristalsis-
17.	Sphincter-
18.	Villus-
Just	the Facts
1.	The main function of the digestive system is to food to a form that can be used by
2.	Three glands secrete an enzyme (amylase) that begins the chemical portion of the digestive process in the \square \square \square \square .
3	In the stomach, the food mixes with hydrochloric acid and the enzymes
٠.	pepsin and gastrin to become
4.	Most absorption of digestive products occurs in the
5.	Most of the water from ingested food is absorbed back into the blood through the walls of the
6.	The digestive system has three accessory organs, which that aid the process of food breakdown.
	They are the
1.	The liver has many important functions including storage of and and reprocessing of
8.	Two digestive system disorders that involve problems with elimination are
	and
9.	Two digestive system disorders that have a genetic cause are
	and

 $Copyright\ 2003,\ Mosby,\ Inc.\ All\ rights\ reserved.$

